President's Report

Firstly, I would like to say a Big Hello to all members, and as this is my first President Report – Thank you for being a part of the best Association with the best breed!

The 2017 National Show is now over and with class numbers quite large, it made for some long days and nights, but overall, I think everyone who showed would agree it was a success. I'd like to thank the show team and all volunteers for their hard work. I know first hand how much work is involved in running a show this size, and without our team and volunteers it would be impossible.

It was my first year as a competitor and while it was long and tiring, I had a great time, met some wonderful people and formed friendships that will last a life-time. There was some great feedback and positive outcomes this year and all suggestions will be taken on board to help with the planning of next year's show

Much praise needs to go to the members out there showing – without competitors there is no show either, and there are many long days and nights involved in participating in the National Show, but everywhere I looked, there were smiling faces and helpful people ready to have a chat or give a hand and offer some advice. It makes me very proud to be part of this Association and makes me want to work hard to listen, hear and act on members concerns, advice and suggestions.

This year is going to be a great year, there are many new proposals in the wind on all fronts, and these will benefit members greatly. One proposal put to me by Billy Smith, Executive Director of the APHA, was for APHA registrations and memberships completed for you though our PHAA Office. This is something we will work towards together and the Board will keep you informed.

Please feel free to contact me or any of the Board members if you have a suggestion, concern or just want to say hello. We are always happy to help out in any way.

There are a few new faces on the board, and I take this opportunity to welcome Chris Burton, Leanne Prime and Sharon Woodhams to the team. They join continuing members – Steven Conn, Fred Burton, Malcolm Hume and myself and add to the diversity we all bring to the Association. Together we will strive to continue to grow the Association and its members and offer superior service for all. I look forward to hearing their vision for the year ahead and working with them on the board.

Until next time, enjoy your horses, stay safe and most of all have fun.

Nicole Steinberger
PHAA President

Past President's Report

Hello Everyone

As the immediate Past President, following the AGM held at the National Show, I just wanted to touch base with everyone and say thank you.

Thank you for all the kind words I received after the AGM and during the week and the supportive comments as to what the Board has achieved during the previous three years. Yes, we have come a long way in that time, but the foundation was laid under my tutelage from Helen Bentley and Craig Dengate. Indeed, all the members of the Board during that period. I remain an active member of the Board as immediate Past President and of course representing Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia and Tasmania alongside Leanne Prime. I will continue to be your voice in between and at the quarterly meetings.

I would also like to pass on my genuine thanks to all those who attended the National Show, as competitors and spectators for the manner in which you conducted yourselves. Sportsmanship at its best.

A special shout out to those who made the trip from Western Australia. How great was that! (I know all the traders at the show appreciated all your purchases).

This is first show I have been actively involved in where not one complaint was received in the show office. In fact, quite the opposite. We received so many late entries to many events partly because everyone was having such a great time. Sure, the programme could have been tweaked but that is the case every year as we will never be able to please everyone all the time. There will always be programming clashes.

To all the show team again thank you for all your efforts and your support you were nothing short of brilliant. Also, a shout out to our new Youth President, Chelsea Henderson. Your active input into the National Show bodes well for the future of the PHAA.

Thank you all for such a positive outlook, which lead to such a positive outcome. In conclusion, I would again like to reiterate that if anyone has a concern or a problem please do not hesitate to contact me. I am more than happy to take your calls and discuss any issue, and not just the States I represent, but anyone anywhere.

Again, thank you all for your very kind words and support. Until next time,

Malcolm Hume
Member representing Vic, SA, WA and Tas.

Editor's letter

Welcome to the June issue of the Journal.

The National Show has once again been and gone. It was the most enjoyable show, with a group of great people working together to keep the show running smoothly. Although exhausted I always enjoy this show in particular.

The breeding season is almost upon us again (I can't believe I am saying that). There are many beautiful stallions available, when deciding, select the stallion that compliments your mare.

I hope you all enjoy the read.

Take care until next time.

Jodie Saville

Well by the time you read this, the National Show is over for another year. For those members and their supporters who attended, I thank you all for your enthusiasm and also for the great conversations you had with us about suggestions for future shows. This will all be tabled at the next Board Meeting for the Show Committee to consider.

In relation to the 2017 National Show I would like to thank the outgoing Director Jeffrey Hall for your work putting together fantastic Show Team that we worked with and for of course doing all the hard yards setting up everything in advance so the days ran regardless of what the weather threw at us. To Lee Ann Hall, thank you for working with David Dellin, the Director of Judges, to come out to Australia and provide four fantastic lectures on how to get the best from your classes from a Judge's Perspective. We hope we can welcome David back next year to continue the series. Thank you also to Billy Smith for making the journey again, it's great to speak with you on your visions for the APHA and PHAA.

A HUGE thank you to Katie for working tirelessly over the show period and to the wonderful Show Team that worked a treat: Barb Etccl – Show Secretary, Clinton O'Sullivan – Arena Manager, Karen Gorrie – Gate/Gear Steward, Carolyn McDowall – Ring Steward, Carol Willding – Assistant Steward/Dressage Penciller, and our volunteers Vicki Hume – Ribbon/Prize Steward, Malcolm Hume – everything else. To our overseas Judges, Teresa Pelton and Kathryn Kope and for our local judges, Kerry Crees, Sue Thomas, Vanessa Roach, thank you for your time and expertise in judging our National Show.

From the office a reminder that memberships will be due soon and are now payable for the 2017-2018 Year. We would encourage you all to renew via the webpage in the first instance. However, if you would like a mailed or emailed renewal form, just let us know. The link to renew:

<https://painthorse.worldsecuresystems.com/member-application>

We would like to remind everyone that the PHAA Webpage is the first and best source of information as this medium is accessible to everyone.

If you have any feedback, questions or suggestions please drop me an email office@painthorse.net.au

Amateur Owner Report

Steven Conn

Hi Everyone,

A lot has happened since my last report for the Journal.

I was lucky enough to be re-elected to your Board, and have welcomed two new members, Sharon Woodhams and Chris Burton, to the boardroom, and a welcome back to Leanne Prime.

At the recent board meeting held after the AGM, I was given the Amateur Owner portfolio. After talking to the APHA at the national show they are organising the Amateur World Show to be in Texas. They would like a team from Australia, we will know more in the next couple of months.

It was great to see a good roll up of Amateurs competing at the recent National Show. Congratulations to all our Amateurs on your successes.

I will be having a sausage sizzle at the Queensland State Show to start fund raising for the Amateurs. I will also be organising a meeting at the show to discuss what you, the Amateurs, want to happen in the future, and nut out ideas for fundraising schemes.

I hope to catch up with a lot of you over the next 12 months, and listen to your ideas.

Bye for now

Steven Conn

International Report

Chris Burton

Hi All,

Thank you to those members who took the time to vote in this year's BOD election and post your votes away. We have learned something out of it ... Australia Post gives a new meaning to snail mail!

This position as International Director is new to me, even though I have been a member of the PHAA for 40 years, I have always been on the sideline so to speak.

I look forward to hearing from the members if they have a problem or have some ideas regarding the National Show, Futurities or registering their Australian Paint Horse with the American Paint Horse Association. Now re the APHA stay tuned as some exciting news may just be coming this way.

Please feel free to contact me, as I am happy to help where I can, 07 54661976, 0429 465 525 or cpaints01@bigpond.com.

Youth Report

Sharon Woodhams

As Youth Director I am excited to be working with PHAA Youth members and their families in the year ahead.

We kicked off the National Show with our Youth meeting where 17 enthusiastic Youth voted in Chelsea Henderson as Youth President and Chloe Miller as Vice President. Both Chelsea and Chloe are wonderful ambassadors for the PHAA and I look forward to working closely with them and ensuring they have an active role in our Association.

I would like to thank Chelsea Henderson, Chloe Miller and Georgia Jones who stepped up and assisted the stewards when they were run off their feet at the show. Your assistance was very much appreciated.

Thank you to Jeff and Lee Anne Hall from EquiNetics for sponsoring the Youth classes as the National Show. Without their generous sponsorship I'm sure a lot of Youth couldn't have gone in the amount of classes that they competed in. Our Youth classes were very well represented with big numbers due to their generosity.

The PHAA will be running a Youth Camp on the 23rd and 24th of September at Wauchope Showgrounds. Please let the office know asap if you are able to attend. A flyer will be posted on our PHAA FB page with all the information. This camp will hopefully be the first of many and will be a lot of fun.

If you need to contact me my email address is paintcrazy1@hotmail.com. I look forward to the year ahead.

Sharon Woodhams

BIO: Sharon Woodhams

Portfolios: Youth, Youth Auction and Breed Improvement

I live at Willala, North-Western NSW with my family on a property where we run 450 poll Hereford breeders. My family has been proudly showing, breeding and promoting Paint Horses under the Real Deal Banner at open breed shows for the last 12 years. We have been active sponsors for the National Show always with the intention of giving back to our industry.

I feel I have developed a good relationship with most of our Youth members and I will endeavour to guide, mentor and be readily available whilst holding the Youth Portfolio.

The Breed Improvement Portfolio interests me and I will work closely with Fred Burton to bring to our members any up to date information.

I believe it's time for our industry to focus on one thing – making itself a strong and relevant industry that has a sustainable future and I would like the PHAA to lead the way.

Youth President Report

Chelsea Henderson

Hi my name is Chelsea Henderson, I'm 13 years old, From Dubbo NSW. I started riding when I was seven and since then I have been hooked. I've competed at PHAA National Show, Queensland State, and NSW State. My favourite show would be PHAA Nationals and Queensland State.

I'm currently riding my three year old Paint Bred gelding, Blue Gums Stylish Dancer AKA 'Bucky'. I recently competed on 'Bucky' at the PHAA Nationals and had a very successful show getting Runner Up High Point Junior Youth and being voted President of the Youth Committee. My favourite disciplines would be all of them including Showmanship, Western Pleasure, English Pleasure, Western Horsemanship and Equitation, English Equitation and Trail.

Congratulations to everyone who made it into the Top Ten Youth. I know myself how much time you have to put into your own horses and yourself to be able to achieve great things. So I hope to see all of you guys at the Youth Camp on the 23-24th September. Personally I would like to thank everyone for the support that has been given to me, it means a lot.

Congratulations to all the people who showed at PHAA Nationals, especially to:

The High Point Senior Youth:

Chloe Miller, Runner Up Chevonne Day.

High Point Junior Youth:

Amber Lewis, Runner Up Chelsea Henderson.

Youth Encouragement: Samantha Wakefield

Jack Abbott and Lyn Martin Award: Georgia Jones

Youth Encouragement Award: Connor Lewis

The Youth President: Chelsea Henderson

and the Vice President: Chloe Miller

It was so good to see so many Youth out there this year hopefully we can achieve the same in 2018.

Thank you Jeff and Lee Ann Hall for the Youth Sponsorship and making a lot of special events happen for the Youth, including the Junior Judging. After that event we had David Dellin talk to us about what to find in a horse in judging. David also held the Showmanship Lecture, Horsemanship, Western Pleasure, and Ranch.

So Thank You to the PHAA Team, Jeff and Lee Ann Hall, Sharon Woodhams and all involved in the running of the show and making it such a successful National Show

Lana Algeri

PHAA Amateur Encouragement Award for 2016-2017

One evening, some years ago, my dear special friend, Lana Algeri, settled down to watch her favourite TV program, Burkes Backyard.

On this particular show, Don Burke featured a segment on horse riding. Lana had always loved horses, but never owned or ridden one, and this show inspired her to give it a go.

Her first horse was a Quarter Horse schoolmaster called Nug Nug or Ole Midnite. When Midnite retired at 25yrs of age, the search began for a new mount.

This was not an easy feat, as every prospect was either too small, too tall, too fat, too thin, too young, the wrong colour or a mare!

The search took three years, and eventually, when speaking with Julie and Emlyn Broad, I enquired as to the whereabouts of Emlyn's Youth horse KRS Beggar Joe, also known as Buddy. Julie explained that he was retired, but still had many years left in him, and he was available only to a special, kind and loving home. After much deliberation, the decision was made that Buddy would come to live in Sydney!

Under the watchful eye of her trainer, Will Hupp, Lana has excelled in gaining confidence and improving her riding ability. Lana is extremely dedicated, and she will put in the hours, no matter how long it takes, and will NEVER give up.

Having recently attended her first PHAA National Show. This is a dream Lana thought would never come true. She does all this with a smile, and a genuine love of Paint Horses, especially her beautiful horse, Buddy.

A Paint Horse owner's guide to demystifying the genetics of spotting patterns.

By Irene Stamatelakys

Before DNA testing became common – before we downloaded forms and pulled mane hairs and received results via email – Paint Horse breeders relied on collective wisdom and trial and error in their quest to produce those all-so-desirable colored foals. Breeders needed to experiment for years before confirming a horse was a good, great or poor color producer. Foaling time brought lots of pleasant surprises, along with some disappointment and occasional heartache.

While the arrival and development of DNA testing has eliminated a lot of the guesswork, many of us have a limited understanding of the tools science has to offer. Others have a good handle on Paint Horse genetics, but advances and discoveries are happening at such a fast rate that it's challenging to keep up with the latest developments.

With that in mind, the Paint Horse Journal has developed a two-part series to increase your genetics IQ. For novices, we'll bring you up to speed on the essentials. For genetics buffs, we'll shed light on some of the latest developments and challenges facing researchers and breeders. And for everyone, we'll attempt to answer the question, "How can these genes enhance my Paint Horse breeding program?"

Genetics Jargon

Before we get into spotting specifics, let's start with some basic genetics terminology you probably learned in biology class.

Chromosomes can be thought of as strings of genes – the building blocks in all living organisms that determine visible traits, like hair color, and non-visible traits, like blood type. A horse has 64 chromosome pairs, inheriting half from the sire and half from the dam.

Each gene has an address – a specific site on a specific chromosome. We call this address a locus, with the plural being loci. Quite often, geneticists use the locus name to refer to a gene. And when a gene comes in different forms, those variations are called alleles.

For example, the Tobiano locus has two alleles: a tobiano allele (TO) and a non-tobiano allele (n). Either can occur at the Tobiano locus, but each chromosome can only carry one allele. Because chromosomes come in pairs, a horse carries two alleles at a particular locus.

If a gene is dominant, like Tobiano, the horse only needs one copy of the allele from one parent to have a tobiano spotting pattern. For instance, a heterozygous tobiano (n/TO) has one Tobiano allele; a homozygous tobiano (TO/TO) has two. Some genes are incompletely dominant. This means that heterozygotes do not look the same as homozygotes. Sabino 1 is one example, which we'll describe later. A recessive gene is only expressed in the homozygous state. Overo Lethal White Syndrome, for example, is a recessive condition; none of the known spotting patterns are fully recessive.

Finally, phenotype is what something looks like on the outside – for our purposes, that's the outward expression of a white spotting pattern in Paint Horses. Genotype refers to the horse's genetic makeup. Sometimes a horse can carry a spotting pattern gene, but not express it in a way that's consistent with how we think that gene should look phenotypically. Now that you've reviewed the lingo, let's take a look at the known mutations responsible for Paint Horse spotting patterns: "The Big Six" and "The Dominant Whites." It's important to note that these genes do not determine whether or not skin cells can produce melanin, which is a class of pigment that's responsible for the dark color of skin, hair and more. Rather, these genes influence the migration of melanocytes (melanin pigment-producing cells) in the embryo.

The Big Six

Tobiano (TO)

CASSIDY COBARR

Inheritance: Dominant

Gene: KIT on Chromosome 3

Discovered: 2007

Phenotype: White legs, at least below the hocks and knees; spots are crisply-outlined and frequently cross the topline somewhere between the withers and the tail; head markings like those of a solid-colored horse, with dark eyes; many also have white areas in the mane and tail, giving the tail a two-toned appearance.

Notes: Even though it's a dominant trait, not all tobianos have enough white to meet the minimum requirements for the Regular Registry.

Frame Overo (O)

CASSIDY COBARR

Inheritance: Incompletely Dominant

Gene: EDNRB on Chromosome 17

Discovered: 1998

Phenotype: In heterozygotes, horizontal white spotting on the neck and body often giving the impression the white markings are framed with colored areas; bald faces and blue eyes are common. It is possible for a horse to carry the Frame allele and be solid or minimal white, not meeting the minimum requirements for Regular Registry.

Notes: Homozygous frames—affected by Overo Lethal White Syndrome—are completely white, unviable foals with no or little pigmented skin; a congenital malformation of the GI tract makes the condition fatal.

Sabino 1 (Sb1)

COURTESY LAUREN BORK

Inheritance: Incompletely Dominant

Gene: KIT on Chromosome 3

Discovered: 2005

Phenotype: White markings on face, lower legs and belly with jagged edges, and roaning on the body. Homozygotes can be completely or nearly all-white but are viable without any known health problems.

Notes: Many Paints have sabino-like patterns that are not caused by Sabino 1.

Splash White 1 (SW1)

CASSIDY COBARR

Inheritance: Incompletely Dominant

Gene: MITF on Chromosome 16

Discovered: 2012

Phenotype: Variable but might include extensive face white, white markings on legs, belly spots and blue eyes; appears as if the horse has been dipped in white. Sorrel/chestnut horses often have more extensive markings than bays.

Notes: This mutation, the most common splash white variant, appears to be several hundred years old. Viable homozygotes have been found and have more pronounced spotting than heterozygotes.

Splash White 2 (SW2)

COURTESY BAR K2 RANCH

Inheritance: Incompletely Dominant

Gene: PAX3 on Chromosome 6

Discovered: 2012

Phenotype: Variable but might include extensive face white, white markings on legs, belly spots and blue eyes; as if appears the horse has been dipped in white. Sorrel/chestnut horses often have more extensive markings than bays.

Notes: Only found in descendants of a single Quarter Horse mare foaled in 1987; Paints are included. No homozygotes have been reported to date, and it's considered embryonic lethal; breeding two carriers is not recommended.

Splash White 3 (SW3)

COURTESY SUSANNA MARINELLI

Inheritance: Incompletely Dominant

Gene: MITF on Chromosome 16

Discovered: 2012

Phenotype: Variable but might include extensive face white, white markings on legs, belly spots and blue eyes; appears as if the horse has been dipped in white. Sorrel/chestnut horses often have more extensive markings than bays.

Notes: This variant is extremely rare, found only in two Paint/Quarter Horse lines to date.

The Dominant Whites

All of these mutations are found on the KIT gene, located on Chromosome 3. Researchers named them Dominant White, although horse breeders might use other terms to describe the patterns. The alleles are dominant, meaning a horse only needs to inherit one copy of the mutation to produce phenotypes that range from slightly increased face and leg markings to sabino-like to completely white. We've bolded the entries for three Dominant White genes known to exist in the Paint Horse breed, and show examples of each below.

The Dominant Whites

Name	Position on KIT Gene	Breed
Dominant White 1 (W1)	Exon 15	Franches-Montagnes Horse: White horses trace back to Cigale, a mare foaled in 1957
Dominant White 2 (W2)	Exon 2	Thoroughbred: White horses trace back to KY Colonel, a chestnut with extensive white markings, foaled in 1946.
Dominant White 3 (W3)	Exon 4	Arabian: Spotted horses trace back to R Khasper, a near-white stallion foaled in 1996.
Dominant White 4 (W4)	Exon 12	Camarillo White Horse: White horses trace back to Sultan, a stallion foaled in 1912.
Dominant White 5 (W5) (see photo at left)	Exon 15	Thoroughbred: Horses trace back to Puchilingui, a stallion foaled in 1984 with a sabino-like coat pattern, and his offspring.
Dominant White 6 (W6)	Exon 5	Thoroughbred: Identified in a single white horse.
Dominant White 7 (W7)	Intron 2	Thoroughbred: Identified in a partially white filly.
Dominant White 8 (W8)	Intron 15	Icelandic Horse: Identified in a partially white horse with mottled phenotype.
Dominant White 9 (W9)	Exon 12	Holsteiner: Identified in a completely white horse.
Dominant White 10 (W10) (see photo at left)	Exon 7	Paint/Quarter Horse: Horses trace back to GQ Santana, a stallion foaled in 2000, and his offspring; expression ranges from nearly all-white to horses with face/leg white and belly spots.
Dominant White 11 (W11)	Intron 19	South German Draft Horse: Identified in a completely white stallion and three white offspring.
Dominant White 12 (W12)	Exon 3	Thoroughbred: Identified in a single horse with sabino-like pattern.
Dominant White 13 (W13)	Intron 17	Quarter Horse/Peruvian Paso: Identified in a crossbred family with two white animals.
Dominant White 14 (W14)	Exon 17	Thoroughbred: Identified in a completely white horse.
Dominant White 15 (W15)	Exon 10	Arabian: Identified in a single horse with partial depigmentation.
Dominant White 16 (W16)	Exon 7	Oldenburg: Identified in a family with three almost completely white horses.
Dominant White 17 (W17)	Exon 12	Japanese Draft Horse: Identified in a completely white horse with one blue eye.
Dominant White 18 (W18)	Intron 8	Swiss Warmblood: Identified in a single horse with extended white speckled areas.
Dominant White 19 (W19)	Exon 8	Part-Bred Arabian: Horses have bald faces, extended white legs and irregular belly spots.
Dominant White 20 (W20) (see photo at left)	Exon 14	Multiple Breeds: Very common mutation; incomplete dominant trait. Markings might include a wide blaze, leg markings and small belly spots. Has a subtle effect on depigmentation with a stronger effect on bays than sorrels. Living homozygotes have been found and tend to have more white.
Dominant White 21 (W21)	Exon 17	Icelandic Horse: Identified in a single horse with a sabino-like pattern.

One of the biggest challenges facing researchers and Paint Horse breeders alike is the nomenclature of spotting patterns.

The only completely dominant white spotting gene is Tobiano, which means a horse only needs one copy of the gene to inherit the trait.

Color Genetics Bookshelf

Want to learn more? Here are two books to add to your equine library.

Horse Genetics (2013, 2nd Edition) by Ernest Bailey and Samantha Brooks

This is the textbook Samantha uses for her equine genetics class at the University of Florida, but she says anyone who survived high school biology can follow along. It covers the basic genetics of the horse including coat color, parentage, medical and population genetics, cytogenetics, performance, breeding systems and genetic conservation, and new advances such as micro-satellite testing.

Equine Color Genetics (2009, 3rd Edition) by D. Phillip Sponenberg

Now in its third edition, this work is an encyclopedia of equine coat color genetics, with in-depth yet accessible explanations and color photos illustrating each example. It's an excellent resource for the Paint Horse breeder and equine color genetics enthusiast.

The Nomenclature Nightmare

One of the biggest challenges facing researchers and Paint Horse breeders alike is the nomenclature of spotting patterns. Over the years, this system of names used to designate a particular pattern has grown increasingly complex and clumsy.

Samantha Brooks, Ph.D., is assistant professor of equine physiology at the University of Florida. Her genetics research led to the discovery of the Tobiano and Sabino 1 genes.

"The nomenclature is a mess," Samantha said. "It's honestly my pet peeve."

The problem is multi-dimensional. On the one hand, you have researchers finding the mutations and, from a scientific perspective, wanting to follow standard naming conventions so that the names make sense to fellow researchers. On the other, you have stock horse breeders who don't necessarily use the same terms. Sabino 1 is a good example.

"We struck out on our own when we named Sabino 1," Samantha said, "Based on the murine (mouse) nomenclature, we should have called it W for the Dominant White locus."

The term "dominant white" is not particularly descriptive either. It's easy to imagine the gene produces an all-white horse – not exactly what Paint breeders are aiming for. The name actually refers to a dominant form of white spotting, which ranges from extended face and leg markings to a completely white coat.

Researchers decided to call the gene Sabino 1 for two reasons, Samantha explains. First, the idea was to better match the terminology used by horse breeders. Second, they didn't want to scare or confuse people with connotations based on the lethal dominant white genes found in mice or the overo lethal white gene in horses.

Things got a little more complex when Bianca Haase, a research fellow at the University of Sydney in Australia, began discovering more genes based on the Dominant White locus.

"When Bianca started finding her white mutations, many of those were homozygous lethal, and many of those are completely white, but not all of them," Samantha said. "She found a couple in the series – [some] that were potentially viable as homozygous and some [that were] heterozygous – that looked similar to sabino, but she chose to keep with the W symbol based on laboratory mouse research. Perhaps some of those should have been pulled out and called sabino instead of dominant white, for the sake of limiting confusion among breeders of spotted horses."

In the Paint world, the most famous dominant white horse is GQ Santana, who was the founding animal of the W10 mutation. But other W mutations vary greatly in their expression – not all look like GQ Santana; they can range from a nearly all-white horse to a mostly solid-colored horse with a blaze and socks to horses that look like what most horsemen would call sabino.

It stands to reason that homozygosity increases the amount of white markings – that seems to be the case for this 2015 cropout colt by A Splash Of Silver (QH) and out of Dun Gone Classy (QH). Both parents are n/SWI and minimally colored; this loud colt carries two copies of the Splash White I gene.

While many Splash White carriers might look phenotypically similar, the three known genes are very different. Hello Big Chex, a 2012 chestnut overo stallion by Big Chex To Cash and out of Custom Princess (QH), carries a single copy of the SWI gene and is negative for other known white-spotting patterns.

“One that comes to mind is W20,” Samantha said. “You’ll see a lot of W20 in the reining horses. It’s a very frequent allele, and we know horses can be homozygous for it. They are perfectly healthy, and homozygotes rarely have more than 30 percent white on the body. And yet that allele got a Dominant White acronym because it is in the KIT gene and [researchers wanted] to stick strictly to murine nomenclature. The scientific convention doesn’t take into consideration the issues that nomenclature can cause us. W20 is one a lot of horse people would call a splash white.” Three mutations designated Splash White can be confusing, too.

“My issue there is a scientific one because you have two different genetic loci that have the same acronym: SW. That’s too confusing,” Samantha said. “At the very least, they should have been split up and given two different names. But that is the nightmare that is nomenclature in the scientific community. And then you talk to horse people, and they call it something entirely different.”

The Mystical Modifier

It can be curious to ponder why one horse might have more or less “color” than another when both carry the same spotting pattern mutation. Breeders have often wondered about the existence of an “enhancement” gene or perhaps a gene that suppresses white.

“[Enhancement] is a word I don’t like,” Samantha said, “in part because it’s been applied to some known genes where it doesn’t belong.”

The idea of a modifier gene comes from Appaloosa genetics.

“In Appaloosas, we have two genes that control white spotting,” Samantha explained. “We have the main LP locus, which is present in horses with anything from a completely white coat with just a few spots to a horse who has Appaloosa characteristics but no body spots. On top of that you add the Pattern locus, which we call PATN1. It controls the amount of white, from one percent to 99 percent.”

PATN1 doesn’t produce a visible spotting pattern itself, but it does control the expression of other spotting genes. And to get the desired Appaloosa phenotype, you need both the LP and PATN1 genes. Samantha notes researchers have not yet documented any PATN1 effect on a pattern other than LP.

“Really, Appaloosa is the product of two loci, not just one,” Samantha said. “We attribute it to one, but you have to have two to get the pattern people want.”

“The analogy [for Paints] is that LP is like Tobiano and PATN1 is your mythical enhancement gene,” she said. “The reality is that because Paint Horses work with so many different patterns, we probably don’t have an enhancement gene. But why else would you get some horses that are 80 percent white and others that have four socks and one white tuft in their mane, but both are genetically Tobiano? You can imagine that there might be a modifying locus that’s contributing to that. Part of this variation is simply due to chance. If there was a second gene essential to the expression of a key Paint pattern [like tobiano], I think we would have found it by now.

“There are certainly genes that create more white when added to Tobiano and perhaps some that create less white. I like the term ‘modifying’ because it doesn’t imply a particular type of effect. Modifiers are not yet described genetically, and at this point they are kind of mythical!”

Samantha’s theory is that some of these mythical modifiers are actually white spotting patterns.

“With some of these W mutations – particularly the ones that look like splash white or sabino – that gene alone is not enough to bump a horse from solid Paint-bred up to Regular Registry,” she said. “Folks have not attributed that gene as a spotting pattern – they’ve just got this horse with socks and a blaze, when it might actually have a good spotting gene there.

“They tend to get called enhancement genes because any time you add two spotting patterns together, you typically get more white. People are giving the credit to the more notable of the two patterns – let’s say Tobiano – but they are also ignoring the fact the horse is actually multi-patterned. What people are calling an ‘enhancer’ is just another spotting pattern that has a distribution that doesn’t perfectly align with the APHA threshold for Regular Registry. The horse might possess a perfectly valid spotting pattern that can act and produce color entirely on its own. I would categorize these genes as a more minimal spotting pattern, not an enhancer or modifier.”

The SW3 gene is relatively rare; one known carrier (n/SW3) is TD Celebri Te, a 2009 chestnut overo stallion by TD Kid and out of Te Time Playmate (QH).

In other words, that mythical modifier or enhancement gene is probably just another spotting pattern—either known or unknown – that is increasing the amount of white on your Paint.

The Potential to Produce

While a horse’s genotype tells one story, the expression of that combination of genes – his phenotype and the extent of his white markings – is dependent on multiple factors, including the interaction of different spotting patterns. It’s also possible that environmental or even randomly determined factors play a role as well. We still have much to learn in the area of equine color genetics; the benefits of increasing our knowledge and understanding, however, are clear: improving the percentage of foals born with a desirable color pattern and safeguarding the health of the horses we raise.

Coming up next issue, ride along with the Paint Horse Journal to the leading animal DNA parentage verification laboratory in the world, the Veterinary Genetics Laboratory at the University of California–Davis. There, we’ll interview VGL Director Cecilia Penedo, Ph.D., about the importance of equine color testing, how these tests are conducted and the results of a small, informal study of a randomly selected group of Paints – both Regular Registry and Solid Paint-Bred horses – to see how many carried a known pattern gene, as we continue our investigation on how these genes can be used to enhance Paint Horse breeding programs.

2017 WA STATE SHOW

By Michaela Breen, WAPHA Secretary Photos: Sonny's Snaps

The WAPHA Inc is proud to announce they held their 1st State Show on the 26th March 2017 at the SEC. Thank you to our judge Glenn Wyse, Ring steward Mindy Thompson, Show Secretary, Pam Eglinton, the WAPHA President, Garry Eglinton and to all those behind the scenes people for helping us to have an extremely successful show.

The turnout of WA Paint Horses was exceptional and throughout the day we had a wonderful atmosphere with lots of smiling faces and positive feedback.

The WAPHA committee would like to say a huge thank-you to all their sponsors, Di Candillo Steel City, Platinum Demolition, Westcoast Livestock, Bullsbrook Produce, Europa Saddlery, Ann Hughes and all the many others, for without your generosity we wouldn't have had the beautiful garlands, gorgeous Hi Point Buckles and prizes for every class that were presented throughout the show.

We started the day with our Futurities, moving on to the Halter Classes, topped off with the Paint and Paint-Bred Grand Champions. We finished off the morning with the Showmanship and Led events. After lunch we had the ridden classes, including Feature events for HUS, Trail and Western Pleasure. At the completion of our show, we presented the Hi Point Awards and our fantastic judge a take home pack of delicious WA chocolates.

Thank-you to all the competitors, helpers and to Sonny Rutherford from Sonny's Snaps, our very talented photographer. Without you we wouldn't have had the enjoyable State Show we had. The WAPHA Inc looks forward to many more successful State Shows in the future.

2017 TREVARTH GARAGES SOUTH AUSTRALIAN WESTERN SPECTACULAR

Over the Australia Day long weekend Circle C Western Riding Club held its annual Western Spectacular Show, at the Mallala International Equestrian Centre. The show was the biggest to date with over $25,000 in cash and prizes handed out throughout the show.

The Paint Breed was well represented this year with locals and interstate visitors both flying the Paint Horse flag.

A few successful Paints and PHAA members were Matt Noble and Cee The Sensation, who won the Amateur Feature Western Pleasure Stakes, as well as Ann Edwards who received High Point Masters Amateur on RD High Roller. Supreme Paint Exhibit went to Shes First Up owned by Ashley Giampaoli. This filly was also High Point Yearling Versatility with a clean sweep of Yearling classes, and she also won the Yearling Halter Feature. Junior Youth was won by Dazhara Mears on Outlaw, who had a fantastic show together.

A few others who did well were Cassie Fisher, and her mare Whata Mytee Talker (Champion Mare), Toni Cummins and Winderadeen Sam I am, Angy Lindblom and TPL Gravitation (Reserve Champion and Champion Gelding and Champion, under the Australian judge), Michelle Edwards and Lootin Me Wranglers (Champion Mare), Sarah Dayman and horse Outlaw (Champion under American, and Reserve Champion Gelding) and Tally S Your So Damn Hot (Reserve Champion Mare), just to mention a few.

We are pleased with the amount of horses that represented the Paint Breed and hope that this number continues to grow.
